PROHIBITION IS NOT ISSUE IN OHIO ELECTION

Democrats Pledge Law Enforcement, Bar Wet-Dry Fight From Platform.

REPUBLICANS TOO

Bulkley To Use Subject In Personal Campaign.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—Prohibition will not be an issue in the Ohio November election insofar as the party platforms go. Like their Republican brothers, the Democrats at their state convention here yesterday adopted a platform completely ignoring the wet-dry issue but pledging enforcement of all laws.

There was no discord between leading candidates on the Democratic state ticket. George White, Marietta, the gubernatorial nominee, is "bone dry" and Robert Bulkley, Cleveland, the senatorial nominee, is "wringing wet", yet each praised the other in their speeches before the platform convention.

The only discordant note in an otherwise harmonious convention emanated from Charles Hubbell, Cleveland, the party nominee for judge of the state supreme court. Cat calls greeted Hubbell when he arose and announced that he "cannot respect a decision to pussy-foot" on the prohibition question. Hubbell is a rabid dry.

Bulkley has made it plain that he does not intend to ignore the prohibition issue in his own personal campaign for election. He was nominated on an anti-prohibition platform in the primary election, and while for the sake of party harmony he agreed not to press for inclusion of a wet plank in the state ticket platform, he said in his speech before the convention that he was sorry the Democratic party took no definite stand for repeal of the dry law.

As adopted the platform pledges the party candidates to:

1. Economize in governmental costs, both state and local and to reduce tax burdens.
2. Return to the classified budget system of making appropriations so that the taxpayer shall have full knowledge of all financial transactions of the government.
3. Stand for respect for law upon the part of all, but demand that enforcement shall be honest, impartial, fair and just.
4. Sympathetic and adequate consideration of the needs of the underprivileged children, particularly the deaf, blind and crippled.
5. Definitely opposed to state income tax, general sales tax, increase in gasoline tax or any other form of taxes which will enact a larger toll from those now bearing more than their just share of taxation.

PARTY PLEDGES

6. Complete the London prison farm project, to provide sensible segregation, and to repair and enlarge institutional facilities that every ward of the state may receive proper and humane care and treatment.
7. Recognizing the great debt we owe those who served the country patriotically in time of war, we pledge strict adherence to existing laws enacted for their benefit and a sympathetic attitude toward future meritorious legislation in their behalf.
8. Favor constructive program of our natural resources.
9. Favor adoption of comprehensive water conservation program for the state in cooperation with federal government, without added expense to Ohio taxpayers.
10. Favor continuance of progressive or stage type of construction of rural highways, as well as extension of hard surface roads.
11. Condemn suppression of free ballot. (This plank directed at Clarence Brown, Republican secretary of state, for his ruling against the Citizen's party ticket in Hamilton-co.)
12. Pledge vigorous handling of graft and corruption.
13. Favor national legislation against mob action and lynching, and protection of rights of colored citizens.
14. (National issues) pledges candidates for house and senate to do all in their power to try to adjust balance between federal and state governments and to stand unflinchingly upon state's rights; prompt cooperation to insure earliest possible completion of Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

HEARTBROKEN

Unable to account for the slaying of Alice, her family is grief-stricken. In the photo are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woltman, father and mother; Henrietta, 21, and Evelyn, 19. The sisters were sleeping in the bedroom of their South Bend, Ind., home when the slayer cut Alice's throat, but were not awakened until she staggered from her bed and collapsed. The mother, awakened by the noise, found the body. Alice, is the second victim with two weeks of a fiendish murderer.

Light Company Would Expand

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—The Pickaway Light & Power Company, incorporated, today applied to the state utilities commission for permission to buy the properties of The Pickaway Light & Power Company, an unincorporated concern.

The incorporated concern also asked for authority to issue 600 shares of its 7 per cent preferred stock, with a par value of $50 each, and 595 shares of its no-par common stock, valued at $10 per share.

Proceeds from the sale of these securities are to be used in paying for the properties of the unincorporated company—$7,950—and in extending its electric transmission and distribution lines—at an estimated cost of at least $25,000—in Madison, Walnut and Washington-twp, Pickaway and in Bloom, Amanda, Greenfield and Hocking-twp, Fairfield-co, and to the unincorporated villages of Ringgold, Cedar Hill and Royalton.

TOTAL 40 MILES

The contemplated line extensions aggregate about 40 miles. Edward A. Schamb and George E. Arbogast, both of Columbus, are president and secretary, respectively, of both companies.

The commission, also, is asked to approve rates for electric service by the incorporated company. These rates include: Lighting and small power service, 6 cents per kilowatt hour; for cooking and special appliances: first 75 kw per month, 5 cents per kilowatt hour; over 75 kw, 4 cents per kw.

Other power rates vary from 6 cents to 2 1-2 cents per kw, depending upon the horse-power of the motor used.

Street lighting rates: 250 c. p. lamp, $40 per year each; 400 c. p. lamps, $55 per lamp per year.

U.S. EUROPE WINS FAVOR

Briand's Project Passed By League of Nations By Unanimous Vote.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—By a unanimous vote, the assembly of the League of Nations today accepted sponsorship of Aristide Briand's project for a "United States of Europe."

The resolution incorporating the federation proposal in the league's program was adopted after President Zuzumata made an important change in the text wording dealing with the future relations of non-league governments in the project.

"The commission will proceed to liaison non-member governments," the revised text read, instead of the previous "non-member European governments" qualification.

League circles interpreted this last-minute change as a move designed to enable the United States of America to offer an advisory hand to the commission to be appointed for the study of the federation.

The resolution as offered was previously approved by Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson of Great Britain. In it Briand provided for a special committee of league members to be assigned the task of studying in detail the plan for a projected European federation. Conclusions and recommendations are to be presented to the league assembly at its next meeting, scheduled for September of 1931.

An X-Ray taken by Dr. D. V. Courtwright, however, showed no bones broken.

NEGRO FOUND UNCONSCIOUS INC. O. RAILS

W. J. Banks, 25, in Berger Hospital Suffering From Fractured Skull.

ROBBERY MOTIVE

Had Money In Restaurant, Broke When Found.

W. J. Banks, aged 25, colored, is in a critical condition at Berger hospital suffering from a fractured skull. Banks, an employee of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, was found lying in the eastbound C. & O. tracks at 6:30 a. m. Wednesday by a section gang beginning its day's work. When found he was unconscious, and although thought dead when taken to the hospital, is still alive although unconscious.

An examination by Dr. A. W. Holman showed that Banks was attacked and was not struck by a train. The only wound he had is on top of his head where it is thought he was struck by a blunt instrument. His clothing is not dirty and was not even damp when he was found. He is not bruised as he would have been if hit by a railroad engine.

ROBBERY MOTIVE

Authorities who are investigating the case believe that robbery was the motive for Tuesday's pay-day for Chesapeake & Ohio employees. When his clothing was searched by Officer William McCrady, Banks had only 25c in his pocket. He was known to have had more than that for while at Smallwood's restaurant at Harrison and Maplewood-aves., he had a $10 bill changed for some food which he purchased.

He had spent the evening until 10 o'clock with Miss Mary Davis, Harrison and Scioto-sts. When he left Davis he went to the home of Earl Hill, Maplewood-ave. and remained there until 11 p. m. He then went to Roy Smith's, Maplewood-ave., and after leaving there at midnight, went to Smallwood's restaurant where he remained until about 2 a. m.

While there he purchased some food and handed Frank Smallwood a $10 bill. When Banks left the place, presumably bound for the C. & O. section cars where he makes his home, two colored strangers left just a few minutes behind him.

STRANGERS LEAVE

No one in the restaurant had ever seen the two men before and police think it possible that these men might have waylaid the injured man, hit him on the head with a heavy instrument, and carried his body to the tracks. Authorities have been unable to obtain a clue as to the whereabouts of the two colored men seen to leave the restaurant.

Banks is thought to have been in this county for at least a year and had told many of his friends that his home was in Lynchburg, Va. Letters had been coming to him at the Davis home from Norwood, Va., so authorities are not certain whether Norwood or Lynchburg is his home.

Officer William McCrady was called by the railroad section foreman and Wednesday was working on the case. The man was taken to the Berger hospital in the ambulance.

DRY, WETS DIVIDE VOTE

Both Sides Place Candidates In Six Primaries Held In U. S. Tuesday.

By International News Service Drys and anti-prohibitionists divided victory in six elections Tuesday, returns to International News Service indicated today.

In Massachusetts, former Senator William M. E. Rogers, a dry, was leading Eben S. Draper, anti-prohibitionist, in a close race for the Republican electoral nomination.

In Wisconsin, Philip LaFollette, won over Governor K. La Follette, a wet, in a gubernatorial nomination.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican congresswoman, was renominated in New York.

Republican dry candidates, with few exceptions, were winning over anti-prohibitionist candidates in Congressional contests, incomplete returns showed.

Connecticut Republicans named Governor Rogers, a dry, as candidate for chief executive.

In Delaware former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, an anti-prohibitionist, was chosen by the Democratic party for the United States Senate. A dry law repeal plank was adopted.

Thrice a King!

Homer Lapp, Wheatland, Ill., farmer, is shown with the prize he won for taking first place for the third time in the annual Wheatland plowing contest. He drove a three-horse team, the outcome of which proved superiority of horse-drawn over tractor-powered plows.

PIQUA, O., MAN INJURED WHEN CARS COLLIDE

Man Returning From Honey-moon To New York City Rushed To Hospital.

MAY LOSE ARM

Believe Man Tried To Pass Truck On Wrong Side.

Leon H. Sills, aged 40, of 315 Wood-ave. Piqua, O., is a patient in Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, suffering from injuries he received when his Buick car crashed into the rear end of the E. G. Buchsleb Fertilizer Co. truck of Columbus. The accident occurred Tuesday afternoon on the Lancaster-pk.

Sills is suffering a compound fracture of the upper part of his left arm, which may cause his arm to be amputated. The bone is broken in five places with four portions of the bone breaking through the flesh. According to Dr. G. W. Heffner, to whose office he was taken, it is almost certain that the arm will have to be amputated.

He was rushed to Dr. Heffner's office by J. T. Pickering, Lancaster attorney, who was returning to his home in Lancaster after attending to business here Tuesday. The man's condition was thought critical and he was hurried to Mt. Carmel hospital in the Mader and Ebert ambulance.

Sheriff's deputies who answered the call to the wreck offered the belief that Sills tried to pass the fertilizer truck on the wrong side. Witnesses say that he had been making fast speed.

It is thought that when Sills tried to pass the truck on the left side he saw that he could not negotiate the attempt and the left front of the Buick car crashed into the right rear part of the truck. It is thought that Sills had his left arm resting on the window of the car.

Sills and his wife, who were the only passengers in the car, were returning from New York City where they have been on a honeymoon, having been married last Tuesday in Piqua. Mrs. Sills was not injured and the car was not damaged except a slight dent in the left side. The truck was not damaged.

MANTUA BANK ROBBERY FAILS

One of Trio Caught By Marshal, Others Flee Toward Cleveland.

MANTUA, O., Sept. 17.—Frustrating an attempted robbery of the Mantua bank here today, Marshall William Powell captured one of the trio of alleged burglars while the two others escaped toward Cleveland in a speedy roadster.

Cleveland authorities were notified and radio squads were posted at all eastern highway entrances to the city.

Powell surprised the suspected robbers as they were crawling through a window in the back of the bank building. He said his suspicions were aroused when he discovered an automobile standing in front of the bank. As he was examining it he heard the tinkle of breaking glass in the rear of the bank where the trio had shattered a window to gain admittance to the building.

Creeping along the shadows of the bank building, Powell sighted the three men. He seized one of the alleged burglars. The remaining two fled while Powell attempted to halt them by firing shots.

The captured man, whose parents are said to live in Mantua, refused to name his accomplices. He admitted, police said, that he met them in Cleveland last night and that they had gone to Mantua with the intention of robbing the bank.

SIR LIPTON'S CHALLENGER IS DISABLED

Accident in Rigging Put Shamrock V Out of Commission.

HAD HELD LEAD

American Boat Now Has Only One Race To Win.

By JACK LAWRENCE

L.N.S. Sport Writer

ABOARD THE U. S. S. KANE

OFF NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, was eliminated this afternoon from the third race for the America's cup series when she became disabled after she had traversed only five miles of the thirty-mile course. She was racing neck and neck with Enterprise, the defender, when an accident to her rigging suddenly put her out of commission.

Shamrock's big main sail came tumbling down-part of it on deck, the rest in the water.

The race had been in progress only three-quarters of an hour when the accident occurred. Enterprise proceeded. She had only to sail the full course to claim her third straight victory virtually putting an end to Sir Thomas' hopes of returning to England with the trophy. A fourth victory for Enterprise would end the series.

TURNED BACK

At first Shamrock turned back, apparently heading for shore. Then she started to sail. She was turned back after her officers had been ordered to turn back. She was turned back after her officers had been ordered to turn back. She was turned back after her officers had been ordered to turn back.

Shamrock took the lead at the very start of the race. It was the first time since the series opened that the challenger found herself out ahead of the American defender.

Cheers from those aboard the spectator's fleet greeted Shamrock's achievement. For the first time the element of excitement was injected into the contest at the outset.

THUGS SLAY POLICEMAN

Walter Cummins, 41, Cincinnati, Surprised Burglars; Dies In Hospital.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17.—Patrolman Walter Cummins, 41, night policeman of Wyoming, a suburb, died in General hospital here today from bullet wounds which were inflicted by two thugs whom he surprised as they attempted to enter a Wyoming residence.

Cummins gave police an account of the shooting and furnished a complete description of the bandits before he died.

He said he approached one of the men who was apparently acting as lookout. The man drew a pistol and Cummins grabbed the barrel.

"Let him go or I'll let you have it," came a voice from the shadows and the second thug opened fire without warning.

Cummins returned the fire, emptying his revolver. The men escaped and it was not known whether any of Cummins' shots were effective. The policeman was wounded above the heart and in the groin.

PASTOR ADMITS BLACKMAIL MARK

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 17.—Reverend Frank E. Reed, a former Methodist Episcopal pastor of the Hanteville church, here, pleaded guilty today to one of four indictments charging him with blackmail and was sentenced to one year in the Ohio penitentiary. Reverend Reed, who was recently expelled from the Methodist Episcopal church by the Ohio conference of that organization, had pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing several weeks ago.

He was rushed to Dr. Heffner's office by J. T. Pickering, Lancaster attorney, who was returning to his home in Lancaster after attending to business here Tuesday. The man's condition was thought critical and he was hurried to Mt. Carmel hospital in the Mader and Ebert ambulance.

Sheriff's deputies who answered the call to the wreck offered the belief that Sills tried to pass the fertilizer truck on the wrong side. Witnesses say that he had been making fast speed.

It is thought that when Sills tried to pass the truck on the left side he saw that he could not negotiate the attempt and the left front of the Buick car crashed into the right rear part of the truck. It is thought that Sills had his left arm resting on the window of the car.

Sills and his wife, who were the only passengers in the car, were returning from New York City where they have been on a honeymoon, having been married last Tuesday in Piqua. Mrs. Sills was not injured and the car was not damaged except a slight dent in the left side. The truck was not damaged.

MANTUA BANK ROBBERY FAILS

One of Trio Caught By Marshal, Others Flee Toward Cleveland.

MANTUA, O., Sept. 17.—Frustrating an attempted robbery of the Mantua bank here today, Marshall William Powell captured one of the trio of alleged burglars while the two others escaped toward Cleveland in a speedy roadster.

Cleveland authorities were notified and radio squads were posted at all eastern highway entrances to the city.

Powell surprised the suspected robbers as they were crawling through a window in the back of the bank building. He said his suspicions were aroused when he discovered an automobile standing in front of the bank. As he was examining it he heard the tinkle of breaking glass in the rear of the bank where the trio had shattered a window to gain admittance to the building.

Creeping along the shadows of the bank building, Powell sighted the three men. He seized one of the alleged burglars. The remaining two fled while Powell attempted to halt them by firing shots.

The captured man, whose parents are said to live in Mantua, refused to name his accomplices. He admitted, police said, that he met them in Cleveland last night and that they had gone to Mantua with the intention of robbing the bank.

MAN FIGHTS EXTRADITION

Ted Geisking Says He Is Being 'Framed' In Lingle Murder Case.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 17.—Maintaining that he is being "framed" for the gang murder of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reported, Ted Geisking and his attorneys today fought to evade extradition to Chicago.

Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney office at Chicago arrived here today with two Chicagoans who witnessed the slaying of Lingle last June 9 in a crowded pedestrian subway.

The witnesses today were to view Geisking in an attempt to identify him as the racketeering reporter's slayer.

Defiant in his cell, Geisking said he would return to Indiana for trial for his hi-jackings and an asserted jail break, but defied anyone to get him into Illinois.

SIR LIPTON'S CHALLENGER IS DISABLED

Accident In Rigging Puts Shamrock V Out of Commission.

HAD HELD LEAD

American Boat Now Has Only One Race To Win.

By JACK LAWRENCE
I.N.S. Sport Writer

ABOARD THE U. S. S. KANE, OFF NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 17.—

Shamrock V., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, was eliminated this afternoon from the third race for the America's cup series when she became disabled after she had traversed only five miles of the thirty-mile course. She was racing neck and neck with Enterprise, the defender, when an accident to her rigging suddenly put her out of commission.

Shamrock's big main sail came tumbling down—part of it on deck, the rest in the water.

The race had been in progress only three-quarters of an hour when the accident occurred.

Enterprise proceeded. She had only to sail the full course to claim her third straight victory virtually putting an end to Sir Thomas' hopes of returning to England with the trophy. A fourth victory for Enterprise would end the series.

TURNED BACK

At first Shamrock turned back, apparently heading for home. Then she seemed to change her mind after her officers held a conference with Sir Thomas who came alongside on his private yacht Erin. Then the challenger, with only head sails set, again turned and pitched along slowly. However, after only a few minutes of this she was taken in tow by a small power boat.

Shamrock took the lead at the very start of the race. It was the first time since the series opened that the challenger found herself out ahead of the American defender.

Cheers from those aboard the spectator's fleet greeted Shamrock's achievement. For the first time the element of excitement was injected into the contest at the outset.

THUGS SLAY POLICEMAN

Walter Cummins, 41, Cincinnati, Surprises Burglars; Dies In Hospital.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 17.—Patrolman Walter Cummins, 41, night policeman of Wyoming, a suburb, died in General hospital here today from bullet wounds which were inflicted by two thugs whom he surprised as they attempted to enter a Wyoming residence.

Cummins gave police an account of the shooting and furnished a complete description of the bandits before he died.

He said he approached one of the men who was apparently acting as lookout. The man drew a pistol and Cummins grabbed the barrel.

"Let him go or I'll let you have it," came a voice from the shadows and the second thug opened fire without warning.

Cummins returned the fire, emptying his revolver. The men escaped and it was not known whether any of Cummins' shots were effective. The policeman was wounded above the heart and in the groin.

PASTOR ADMITS BLACKMAIL MARK

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Sept. 17.—Reverend Frank E. Reddick, former Methodist Episcopal pastor of the Huntsville church, near here, pleaded guilty today to one of four indictments charging him with blackmail and was sentenced to one year in the Ohio penitentiary.

Reverend Reddick, who was recently expelled from the Methodist Episcopal church by the Ohio conference of that organization, had pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing several weeks ago.

Cardinals Win First Contest From Brooklyn

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—For normally dignified city of Brooklyn has gone cuckoo, and nothing can be done about it until the question of the hour is settled, namely: Which club—St. Louis or Brooklyn—will face the Philadelphia Athletics in the world series?
Although the faltering Chicago Cubs are only a game and a half behind the lead, the Brooklyn fans have ceased to worry about them. And even though the fourth place Giants are still mathematically in the running, Brooklyn has tolled over them the long count.
St. Louis in the first game of this thrilling series, violently jerked the Robins out of first place just as they were reaching confidently for their 12th straight victory. It took great baseball to do it, the Cards winning 1 to 0 in 10 innings in what was perhaps the most exciting contest of the National League season. It was a remarkable pitchers' battle between Bill Hallahan and "Dazzy" Vance—a game featured by a dozen scintillating plays and a few that actually were hair raising.
The Cards proved that they are great "money players," and so did the Robins, for that matter. It was anybody's game to the final out. Neither team showed the slightest signs of cracking. The Cards, with such ex-world series players as Frisch, Douthit, Hafey and Bottomley in the lineup looked a great deal more formidable than did the Cubs on their recent invasion of Ebbets Field.
It wasn't the defeat that hurt the Robins so much, but rather the manner in which the courageous Cardinals snatched the game out of the fire. The Cards' list stand, with defeat staring them in the face, was drama supreme.
Here was the situation: St. Louis finally, in the 10th inning, had made a run by virtue of pinch hitter Andy High's double and Taylor Douthit's slashing single. Came the Brooklyn half of the 10th and Hallahan, weakening a bit, filled the bases with only one out. With the crowd in an uproar, Lopez ambled to the plate and drove a sizzling grounder down toward Sparky Adams at short. The stands broke into an exultant shout as Adams rumbled the ball which ran up his chest and above his head. He reached up, grabbed the ball as it came down and tossed quickly to Frisch for a force at second. Frisch, a great "money player," pivoted like a flash and got the ball to first ahead of Lopez for the final out. The ball beat the runner by an eye lash, and it was lucky for St. Louis that it did for the tying run was already over the home plate.
Whether that hair-raising victory took any of the grit out of Brooklyn remains to be seen.

Nearly Cinch Pennant As Indianapolis Topples Toledo In Single Game.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—Louisville topped the Columbus Senators, 8 to 7, for the second time yesterday in a free hitting contest and maintained its two-and-one-half game lead over St. Paul in the American Association pennant race.
St. Paul captured a close one from Milwaukee, 8 to 7. The Brewers filled the seats in the last of the ninth, but two brilliant plays by the Apostles staved off defeat and enabled them to remain in the running for the pennant.
Toledo's hope of still emerging on top was shattered by Indianapolis, who gained an even break in a double-header with the Reds, 6 to 4, and 4 to 0. The Indians snatched the abbreviated nightcap of 7 innings by tallying their four runs in the first inning without making a hit.
Even if Toledo should win its five remaining games and Louisville drop its five, they would still be one game behind. The Colonels need to capture four out of their remaining games to cinch the pennant. St. Paul is assured of second place if it can take three of its remaining six games.
Kansas City two-timed Minneapolis, 4 to 3 and 8 to 0, and are threatening to replace the Millers in fourth place. The Blues are only two games behind a first division berth.

THIEF CAUGHT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 17.—Walter Staley, 18, is said to-day—but much wiser.
He tried robbing the apartment of Mrs. L. B. Giles, secretary to R. C. Mitchell, special agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, police said, and was captured—but not by police.
Mrs. Giles not only overpowered Staley in the brief scuffle which ensued but also yanked him over to her dressing table; procured a pistol, took him to police headquarters in her automobile, and frustrated an attempted escape enroute by jamming the gun into his ribs as she drove with one hand.
As robbery charges were preferred against Staley, the formerly matron opined that she must have picked up her fearlessness from daily contact with railroad detectives.

Cardinals Win First Contest From Brooklyn

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—For sheer drama, this baseball series they are having before a yowling mob over at Brooklyn's Tom Thumb ball yard between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Robins is the real thing—a pure, unadulterated thriller. By comparison that international yachting series over at Newport between Enterprise and Shamrock V. must be classed as a pink tea or a prolonged yawn.

The National League pennant race, for all anybody knows, may be riding on this epic series at Ebbets Field. Maybe the flag is riding on today's game, or on a single pitched ball. For these two clubs now locked in a death struggle, are as close as a couple of spooners. St. Louis, in first place, has won 83 ball games and lost 60 for a percentage of .580 whereas Brooklyn has won 84 and lost 61 for a mark of .579.

Ebbets Field can't hold the crowd that wants to be in at the death in this "little world series." They turned them away in droves yesterday and probably will again today—and tomorrow. The final game between the two clubs. The normally dignified city of Brooklyn has gone cuckoo, and nothing can be done about it until the question of the hour is settled, namely:

Which club—St. Louis or Brooklyn—will face the Philadelphia A's in the world series?

AT THE METROPOLITAN

One version of Pathe's production of Philip Barry's "Holiday," will never be seen by the public when this picture is shown in the theatres of the country. Mary Astor, who plays a leading role, is an amateur photographer. She carries a tiny motion picture camera with her almost every place she goes.

This prized possession accompanied Miss Astor to the set while she was working on "Holiday." She herself photographed scenes in which she did not appear, while members of the cast volunteered to substitute for her when she was in action.

In addition to this complete, miniature production of "Holiday," which is at the Metropolitan theatre, Miss Astor made short reels of Edward H. Griffith, director and fellow members of the cast. Among those who posed for her short subjects were Ann Harding, who fills the featured lead, Edward Everett Horton, Robert Ames, Hedda Hopper, Monroe Owsley, William Holden, Conroy Hale, Mabel Forrest, Audrey Forrester and Hallam Cooley.

Making land, the process by which waterfront cities frequently steal from sea, or lake, or river, more spaces on which to carry on business, is carried to the extreme by one tribe of South Sea Islanders, according to Martin Johnson, famous explorer and cameraman.

In the talking picture, "Across the World with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson" which comes to the Metropolitan theatre Wednesday for an engagement of two days, Mr. Johnson shows and tells about a group of more than 100 islands in the Langa-Langa Lagoon, every one of which was made by the inhabitants. The natives on these islands spend their whole lives on them living entirely on coconuts and fish.

DEPUTY HELD

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 17.—Deputy Sheriff Lew Turner faced charges of possessing equipment to make liquor following a raid on his home here yesterday by Sheriff Maurice J. Caldwell and state prohibition agents. A small still, authorities said, was found in the deputy's home and was confiscated.

LOUISVILLE TOPS SOLONS

Nearly Cinch Pennant As Indianapolis Topples Toledo In Single Game.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17.—

Louisville topped the Columbus Senators, 8 to 7, for the second time yesterday in a free hitting contest and maintained its two-and-one-half game lead over St. Paul in the American Association pennant race.

St. Paul captured a close one from Milwaukee, 8 to 7. The Brewers filled the sacks in the last of the ninth, but two brilliant plays by the Apostles staved off defeat and enabled them to remain in the running for the pennant.

Toledo's hope of still emerging on top was shattered by Indianapolis, who gained an even break in a double-header with the Hens, 6 to 4, and 4 to 0. The Indians snatched the abbreviated nightcap of 7 innings by tallying their four runs in the first inning without making a hit.

Even if Toledo should win its five remaining games and Louisville drop its five, they would still be one game behind. The Colonels need to capture four out of their remaining games to clinch the pennant. St. Paul is assured of second place if it can take three of its remaining six games.

Kansas City two-timed Minneapolis, 4 to 3 and 8 to 0, and are threatening to replace the Millers in fourth place. The Blues are only two games behind a first division berth.

Frank Shride and Fred Drutz attended the First Presbyterian church in Columbus, Monday.

THIEF CAUGHT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 17.—Walter Staley, 18, is sad today—but much wiser.

He tried robbing the apartment of Mrs. L. B. Giles, secretary to R. C. Mitchell, special agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, police said, and was captured—but not by police.

Mrs. Giles not only overpowered Staley in the brief scuffle which ensued but also yanked him over to her dressing table; procured a pistol, took him to police headquarters in her automobile, and frustrated an attempted escape enroute by jamming the gun into his ribs as she drove with one hand.

As robbery charges were preferred against Staley, the comely matron opined that she must have picked up her fearlessness from daily contact with railroad detectives.

Canadian Trade Now Endangered

By Robert S. Thornburgh
WASHINGTON Sept. 17—American foreign trade will suffer a blow if Canada decides to launch into a real tariff war; Dominion business will be adversely affected and it will do neither country any good in the end.

In brief this was the way high officials of the government sized up the proposed plan of the Canadian conservative regime to meet the Dominion's economic evils by erecting a high tariff wall around its industries.

While the Canadian officials insist that there is no thought of retaliation against the Smoot-Hawley tariff rates, experts here fear that the Dominion Parliament may yield to the demands of the public, and for political reasons, adopt a tariff with reprisals as the motive.

"There is a feeling of concern on the part of government officials and private commerce and industry of the results which would follow should Canada attempt to rush into a tariff war," said an official who keeps closely in touch with foreign trade developments.

"It is feared that such a war might be started without considering the dangers. There is nothing more serious to inter-country trade than a tariff conflict.

"Frankly this government hopes that such a conflict, with its hectic exchanges of heated arguments, charges and statements may be avoided."

In many lines of raw materials and trade Canada and the United States are natural customers, between which the most cordial trade and diplomatic relations have existed for years. Officials, who base their opinion on economic rather than political laws, did not hesitate to mention that in some respects the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill was stupid and had the result of arousing ill-feeling abroad and possible retaliation. The White House did not put it that strong but has called attention to "inequities" in the law.

Nevertheless they felt that Canada has little to gain from a tariff war with the United States. It should be borne in mind that while much of intra-empire trade by Great Britain, the British Empire is a very close economic unit with its own commercial and industrial jealousies, rivalries and competitive situations. Canada and Australia for instance, have been in conflict more than once in relation to placing premiums on dairy and other products has not been received well in the Dominion.

The United States is in as good a position to trade in Empire markets as is Canada and enjoys a substantial trade with the various units of Great Britain, in spite of frequent "buy at home" and within the Empire trade movements inaugurated throughout Britain.

Out of all American exports during the first seven months of the year amounting to $2,342,900,000, $950,814,000 went to British empire countries including Canada, and of $1,056,300,000 imports, $870,208,000 were purchased from Great Britain. Normally exports to the British empire in a seven month period will well exceed $2,000,000,000 with imports substantially over $1,000,000,000.

From the export figures to British countries it will be seen that the "intra-empire" purchase movement has not seriously affect-

British Peace Prophet

ARTHUR Henderson, British foreign secretary, addressing the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in behalf of his government, talked like an American.

"Security and disarmament," he said, "are closely interlocked, and nothing can make our people truly safe from war until a treaty of general disarmament has been made. Security is impossible if competitive military preparations continue as they are going on today. After all, there is none of us who in his heart does not know that of all security measures disarmament is in itself the most important."

Such statements enrage the militarists and navalists back home in England, just as similar statements by American spokesmen always enrage our own militarists and navalists. War boards, generals and admirals cannot keep themselves free from professional bias and tradition. Armament manufacturers are still influenced by economic interest. Political demagogues and journalistic jingoes still rant.

They may rebash the old arguments and sound old war cries. But the man in the street, the woman in the home, the business man in the office, and even the statesman in place of power, are more than ever disposed to agree with Secretary Henderson.

With new books to sell next winter at a dollar the public may go back to reading books, instead of reading what critics think of them.

Back to Houses

SMALL towns have never got away from individual homes. Big towns have been running more and more to tenements for the poor and apartment houses and hotels for the better-to-do. But the tide is turning.

According to Harry Freund, director of the American Research Foundation, skyscraper apartments and massed tenements will begin to disappear from our cities within 10 years. This is shown by a broad survey of building tendencies.

Already city concentration has stopped; cities are thinning out. The gains in our big cities are shown in the last census to be made almost entirely in out-lying residential centers. And in such centers the characteristic home is a house with a yard around it.

This development is largely the result of better transportation. But the main cause is the deep desire of the typical American to own his own home. "If he can build a modest residence in a suburb and still have all the advantages of city living, he is certain to desert the city."

In the smaller cities and the larger towns and villages the problem is simple. They have never succumbed to the metropolitan crowding. They have remained communities of single homes. All they have to do, as a rule, is to take advantage of the situation by building modern homes and modernizing the old ones a little.

Another thing America needs is a new thought to write on the back of vacation postcards.

Big Men and Books

THE Book Publishers' Research Institute conducted a survey to discover what the successful man of affairs reads. Opinion prior to this time had been divided into three beliefs: that a successful man relaxes his mind with mystery stories; that he read nothing that did not have a direct bearing on his business; or that he read not at all.

Forty-three prominent men were willing to divulge their reading habits. It was found that all of them are book-minded, spending at least two hours a day on serious reading. Economics, foreign relations and the classics rank high in their lists, but biographies lead. These busy men read many of them, the current ones and older volumes. Nearly all of them frankly that their own lives have been influenced in some way by great biographies.

An interesting sidelight on these readers is the fact that most of them buy and keep the books they read. Evidently the successful business man is not the cause of the hard luck of authors, publishers and booksellers.

In spite of all the drug stores around them, people keep on saying that this is an age of specialization.

ANOTHER ENDURANCE FLIGHT

"The SEA BRIDE"

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XXXV.

DAN'L saw and understood. He cultivated Slatter; tended the man's hurts, and gave him covert sympathy for the beating he had taken; and Slatter, emboldened, swore harshly that he would finish Brander, give him half a chance.

Dan'l said hastily and quietly: "Don't talk such matters, man. There's more than you aboard ship would do that if they dared. I'm not saying even Noll Wing would not smile to see Brander gone. No matter why."

"I know why," Slatter grinned evilly. "Every man forr'd knows why."

"Well, then, you'll not blame Noll," said Dan'l. "I'm thinking he'd fair kiss the man that had a hand in ending Brander, if it was not done too open; but there's none aboard would dare it."

"By God, let me get him forr'd, right, and I'll—"

"Quiet!" said Dan'l. "Here's the man himself!"

Here was his tool; Dan'l waited only the occasion. There was a way to make that.

A whaler's crew are for the most part seum; harden enough when they are held in hand, easily managed so long as they are kept in fear. But alcohol drives fear out of a man; and there was whisky and rum in the captain's storeroom.

It was one of the duties of Roy, as ship's boy, to fetch up stores from this room at command; he was accustomed to fill Noll Wing's bottles now and then. Dan'l saw he might use Roy; and he did so without scruple.

"I've need for liquor, Roy," he told the lad. "But I'd not ask Noll. He's jealous of the stuff, as you know. So when next you're down, fill a jug with whisky, and fetch it up to me."

He said it so casually that Roy agreed without question. The boy was pleased to serve Dan'l. Dan'l held him; had captured Roy, heart and soul. Roy gave him the jugful of liquor next morning. Slatter had it by nightfall, and that without Dan'l appearing in the matter. Slatter came aft to take the wheel, and Dan'l saw to it the jug was in his sight and at hand. Slatter carried it forward with him. He passed Dan'l in the waist; and Dan'l looked at the jug and laughed and said:

"Man, that looks like liquor!" Slatter grinned uneasily.

"Oil for the fo'e's'le lamp," he said.

Dan'l wagged his head. "See that that's so," he said. "If any ructions start in the fo'e's'le, I'll send Brander forward to quiet you. You'll not be wanting Brander to lay hand on you again."

Slatter's eyes shifted hungrily; he went on his way with quick feet. Dan'l watched him go, and his eyes set hard.

That was at dusk. Toward ten that night, when Brander was in his hammock under the boat-house, one of the men howled forward, and there was the sound of scuffling in the fo'e's'le. Dan'l was waiting. He called to Brander.

"Go forward and put a stop to that yammering, Mr. Brander."

Brander slid out of his hammock, assented quietly, and started forward along the deck. Dan'l watched his dark figure in the night until it was lost in the waist of the Sally. He waited a moment. Brander must be at the fo'e's'le scuffle by now.

Came cries, blows, a tumultuous outbreak. The Sally rang with the storm of battle. Then, abruptly, quiet.

At that sudden-falling quiet, Dan'l turned pale in spite of himself; he licked his lips. The thing was done! He ran forward, virtuously ready to take a hand.

When Brander, at Dan'l's command, went forward to quiet the men in the fo'e's'le, he found two or three of the crew on deck about the scuttle, watching the tumult below. When they heard him and saw him, they backed away. The light from the fo'e's'le lamp dimly illumined their faces; and Brander thought there was something murderous and at the same time futuristic in their eyes.

More than that, he caught the smell of alcohol. So there was whisky loose!

A man sped up the ladder past him to the deck, saw him and slid away into the dark; and then another. Six or eight were still fighting below.

Brander had that sixth sense which men must have who would command other men; he felt, now, the peril in the air. His duty was down there among those fighting men. To get down, he would ordinarily have used the ladder. But to do so would be to engage his hands and his feet, and he might well have need of both these members. He put his hands on the edge of the fo'e's'le scuttle and dropped lightly to the floor of the fo'e's'le without touching the ladder. He landed on his toes, poised, upon the floor. Then two or three men made a rush up the ladder to the deck.

Brander stepped forward, tripped over a whirling leg, and dropped upon a smother of two bodies which writhed beneath him. An arm was flying; he gripped for it and felt the prick of a knife in his wrist. Death in the air!

He dragged that arm down to his face and bit at the wrist and the back of the hand till he felt the knife drop from the man's fingers. The three of them were writhing and striking and kicking, and strangling; but the knife was gone.

He began to fumble with his right hand, seeking marks for his fists. He did not strike blindly, but when he struck, his blows went home—on someone's ribs, and back, and once on the neck at the base of the ear.

They were fighting in silence now. All had passed so quickly that it was still scarce more than seconds since Brander dropped into the fo'e's'le. Their bodies thumped the planking resonantly; they struggled in a fashion that shook the ship. They were gasping and choking for breath.

Someone screamed terribly in Brander's very ear, and a hand that was gripping his neck relaxed and fell away. The bodies of the fighting men were for an instant still; and in that instant's silence, someone asked:

"You all right, Mr. Brander?" Brander knew the voice—Mauger's.

"Yes," he said. Mauger squirmed out from under Brander.

"What hit Slatter?" he asked sharply. "Did you get him?"

Brander got up, and the body of Slatter fell away from him limply. It was about that time that Dan'l reached the fo'e's'le scuttle above, and looked down into the darkness. He saw nothing.

"Mr. Brander," he called. "Yes, sir," Brander said quietly. "All right."

"What's wrong there?" "Slatter tried to knife me."

"Have you got him?" "I don't know. He's still. Strike a light, if you please."

An arm was flying; he gripped for it and felt the prick of a knife in his wrist. Death in the air!

The narrow, crowded, triangular den was thick with the smell of hot men, of whisky, of burning oil; the air was heavy with smoke. A single swinging lamp lighted the place. Beneath that lamp, four or five men were involved in a battle from which arms were waved awkwardly as their owners struggled. Two other men crouched at opposite sides of the fo'e's'le—watching. One was Mauger; the other Slatter.

"Stop it, now!" Brander cried. The character of the struggle changed; the fighting men straightened. Some one lit the lamp and sent it whirling into darkness; and at the same moment, Brander heard Slatter scream murderously. He slipped to one side, backed into a corner and held his hands before him, ready to meet an attack.

Slatter's charge, if he were attacking Brander, should have carried the man past the mate's hiding-place; but Brander, in the dark, heard a thump of two bodies together, heard Slatter, bellowing profanity, heard heels thumping

GORDON SALE

Ben Gordon of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Co. at 432 E. Mound-st., local distributor of Dayton Thorobred tires is now conducting what he terms his "Big Fall Tire Festival" featuring two tires for the price of one. The same to apply on tubes. Individual purchases are limited to two tires and two tubes.

When asked how he could afford to do this Mr. Gordon said, "This is my 'get better acquainted with Dayton Tires' campaign. I'm gambling for future business, practically all of my normal profit in this introductory sale. The more people who buy Dayton tires now, the more repeat business I'll have when they need tires the next time."

Mr. Gordon assures that these tires are all first grade -- and that now is the opportune time for such a 'get better acquainted with Dayton Tires' program. Now, while the weather is still warm, is the time to have new tires put on. Too many people, heretofore, have made the mistake of waiting till cold weather came before putting on new equipment.

The Underweight Child Faces Severe Handicap

—School Work and Ambition Suffer

The Necessary Burden of Extra Study to "Catch-Up" Has a Discouraging Effect, Says Authority. Urging Correction of Causes of Malnutrition.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

HEALTH comes first of all in importance. The child who has a good start in life has an immense advantage over those who have been handicapped by ill health.

I wish every kiddie could be well nourished and possessed of good health. So many children go about listlessly, behind in their school work and burdened more than they should be by long hours of study and home work. How about your child? Does he seem tired, pale and irritable?

There is a real reason back of all this. The question of underweight centers about a good many contributing factors. Perhaps the child has any physical defects. It is well to have your doctor look him over and give his opinion on the subject.

Sometimes a child with defective eyesight or poor hearing will develop a serious physical condition. Very often a nervous, high-strung child who is behind in his school work will be found to have quite serious eyestrain. If allowed to go on, malnutrition and underweight might follow.

In the case of adenoids or diseased tonsils, poisons are carried by the blood stream to all parts of the body. Such a condition should be attended to at the earliest possible moment. If the child seems to be underweight from this sort of thing

Answers to Health Queries

W. T. Q.—I am boy of nineteen and I am troubled with my hands and fingers shaking at times. How can I remedy this?

A.—You are probably troubled with neurasthenia, which is very difficult to relieve, because it requires so much faith and persistence. For full particulars, kindly send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Q.—Will carbonated water or sour milk produce acid on the stomach?

A.—No.

CITY INCLUDED IN BIG PHONE CABLE

A long distance telephone cable loop, which circulates Ohio and the facilities of which are available to Circleville telephone users, has just been completed by The Ohio Bell Telephone Company. E. W. Lutz, general manager of The Citizens Telephone Co., said that the telephone lines from Circleville connect with the loop at Columbus by way of the recently completed Columbus-Circleville cable.

This cable starts in Cleveland, goes west to Toledo, south from Toledo past Sidney to Dayton, east from Dayton through Columbus to Cambridge, and north from Cambridge to Cleveland. Among the other large communities along the route are Findlay, Springfield, Newark, Nocomerstown, Massillon, and Akron. Branch cables lead off to Fremont, Lima, Delaware, Zanesville, Canal Winchester, Lancaster, Ravenna, Niles and Youngstown.

The part of the loop just finished, thus completing the circle, lies between Findlay and Dayton. On the south, the loop connects with the Pittsburgh-St. Louis cable and on the north with the New York-Chicago cable.

KONJOLA BRINGS LASTING RELIEF TO DAYTON LADY

Rheumatism, Neuritis, and Kidney Trouble Yield In Turn to Power of Famous Medicine.

MRS. NANNIE ROY.

"I suffered for years with rheumatism, neuritis, and kidney trouble," said Mrs. Nannie Roy, 15 Dayton avenue, Dayton, Ohio.

"Agonizing pains shot through my shoulders and the back of my neck. My head ached constantly and the joints of my arms and fingers were stiff and swollen from rheumatism. Disordered kidneys caused severe pains across my back and bladder actions were frequent. Constant suffering caused me to be weak, run-down and very nervous."

"Within a month after I began taking Konjola my health was greatly improved. My kidneys were stimulated to normal action and my sleep was restful. My nerves became calm. I have taken six bottles of Konjola and the frightful pains of neuritis and rheumatism have entirely gone."

"This is not an exceptional case. The files of Konjola are filled with just such instances. Try this new medicine today."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

OBITUARY

Martha Foster, daughter of William and Jane Gill Fyle was born in Ross-co. Jan. 28, 1853. Died Sept. 14, 1930, at the age of 77 yrs 7 mo., 16 days. She was united in marriage to George A. Foster, Apr. 30, 1874. To this union were born five children, C. H. Foster of Duluth, Minn., Dr. H. T. Foster of Laurelsville, O. and Mrs. William A. Avis of Circleville, O. two infants having preceded her in death. She also leaves four sisters and one brother, and a host of relatives and friends.

While a girl she was converted to God and became a member of the Methodist church. She was faithful in attendance while her health permitted and her daily life was a living testimonial to the sincerity of her Faith.

She was deprived of her companion of fifty-one years, in 1925, which greatly saddened the remaining years of her life. She never complained and her Faith that all would be well in God's good time never wavered. Words cannot describe the beauty of her character. It seemed at times as though hands were beckoning to her from across the Great Divide, and our consolation is the abiding Faith that she is again united with the loved ones gone before.

"Death comes to the hut where the poor man dwells.
He enters the rich man's bower.

He plucks the bud and the full grown rose.

And gathers the faded flower.

We lay them down in the earth's warm breast.

With grief in our hearts consuming.

But we cherish the hope we shall meet them again.

In the fields of Eternal blooming."

BUYS BUSINESS

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Messie of Stoutsville have purchased the barbeque and filling station on the Hosler property at Mt. Sterling.

GEO. HANE ILL

George Hane is seriously ill at his home in Walnut-twp.

If it's true that we spend more than $1,000,000,000 a year per family on beautification, our observation suggests that a good deal of the money is thrown away.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Charles Bass, Wayne-twp., underwent an operation at Berg's hospital Tuesday and is getting along nicely.

Another object for sympathy is the man whose car is old enough to turn in on a new one, but runs so well that he can't bear to part with it.

A jury is a body of citizens that tries the case according to the evidence and its prejudices.

SILLS FUNERAL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 17.—Funeral arrangements for Milton Silks, well-known motion picture actor, today awaited the arrival of Silks' younger brother, Clarence, who is enroute from Chicago.

Doris Kenyon, screen star and widow of Silks, was still under a physician's care as a result of her collapse following the sudden death late Monday. Silks slumped to the tennis court on his Santa Monica estate, stricken with heart failure, and died before doctors arrived.

Tentative arrangements were made to hold the funeral rites Saturday.

PREACHER DIES

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 17.—Reverend John Kelley, 53, for 24 years minister of a local Catholic church, was found dead in bed at the home of his mother, Mrs. Anna Kelley, here today.
